

Activities that do not require an itinerant trade card

Some activities do not require an itinerant trade card.

Those include

- sale of food products or other everyday consumer goods, provided that these are sold from non-stationary i.e. from mobile sales outlets at the same place at regular short intervals
- offering printed matter on public footpaths, roads, square and in other public places, e. g. newspaper vendors.

In these cases, your business activities must only be registered with the competent Public Order Office for your regular place of residence.

The general provisions for registering, re-registering and de-registering a business apply.
