Residence permit for the purpose of full-time studies

A foreign student is granted a residence permit for full-time studies at a state-recognised university or a comparable educational institution in Germany.

The purpose of stay for the studies also includes preparatory measures and the completion of a compulsory internship. Preparatory measures for the studies are

- attending a preparatory language course, if admission to the course of study is tied to attending a preparatory language course, and
- attending a preparatory college or comparable institution.

A residence permit cannot be issued for an intensive language course to learn a foreign language (e.g. English). This also applies if the desired course of study is only offered in this foreign language.

The residence permit is generally granted and extended for two years. It entitles the holder to work for a total of 140 full work days in a calendar year. Self-employment is also permitted as a secondary occupation (see section “More information”).

Procedure

1. Carry out the online application “Application for a residence permit for language and study purposes”

- The application is possible at the earliest 4 months before the end of your current residence title.
- Please have all the necessary documents ready for this in PDF format if possible. However, you can also still photograph and upload the documents during the application process using your smartphone or tablet. The following file formats are accepted: PDF, JPG, JPEG, and PNG. The total size of your files must not exceed 100 MB. A single file must not exceed 7 MB in size.
- Before you can send off the application, you need to pay the service fee.
- At the end you will receive a PDF document to confirm your application. This document will certify that your current residence title (national D visa or residence permit) remains valid in the federal territory beyond the previous validity date. (This does not apply if you hold a Schengen visa (C visa) for a short-term stay).
- The following applies to nationals of the beneficiary countries under Section 41 of the Ordinance Governing Residence (see section “More information”): Did you arrive in Germany fewer than 91 days ago and are now applying for a residence permit for the first time? Then your residence in Germany is considered lawful until a decision is made on your application. This means that you can begin your studies or the preparatory measures for your studies. However, you are not yet permitted to start work.
- Please therefore make sure to save this document and print a copy if possible.
- Note: Do your spouse and child live with you in Berlin and need a residence permit? Then please do not submit a separate application for them. Simply enter your family members in the spaces provided in the online application.

The Berlin Immigration Office will contact you regarding residence permits for your family members.

2. Once you have carried out the online application “Application for a residence permit for language and study purposes”, we will check it and then contact you as soon as possible. Where necessary, we will request further documents.

3. If your application is considered to be successful, you will be given an appointment for an in-person interview. Please bring the originals of all the necessary documents with you to this appointment.
