EU Blue Card (Blaue Karte EU)

If you have a university degree you can get an EU Blue Card to enable you to work in Germany. A certain minimum salary is necessary for this.

The EU Blue Card has several advantages compared with a residence permit for the purpose of employment. For example, it enables you to obtain the right of permanent residence more quickly. There is more information about the benefits in the "More information" section.

The EU Blue Card is valid for a maximum of 4 years. If you have a fixed-term employment contract, the EU Blue Card can also be valid for a shorter time. Normally it also lasts 3 months longer than your employment contract.

For the first two years of employment, approval from the Foreigners' Registration Office must be obtained before any change of job.

You have foreign family members in Berlin who also need a residence title?

Then please make an appointment together to apply for the EU Blue Card and the residence permits for your family members.

You can find the necessary documents for your family members in the service "Residence permit for spouses and children of holders of an EU Blue Card" (see section "More information").

Prerequisites

• Specific university degree

You have

- a degree from a German university or
- a degree from a foreign university which is recognised in Germany, or
- a different degree from a foreign university which is comparable to a German degree.

You can check the "anabin" database to see whether your foreign degree is recognised. You will find a link to this database in the "More information" section.

If your degree is not evaluated in this database, you can have a certificate assessment carried out specially for your degree. This will incur additional costs. You can find more about certificate assessment in the "More information" section.

• Employment

You already have an employment contract or a concrete offer.

• Minimum salary

You can only get the EU Blue Card if you earn enough. The amount you need to earn depends on your job. For the year 2022 the following applies:

- If you work in a shortage occupation, you need to earn EUR 3,666.00 gross per month or more. (This equates to EUR 43,992.00 per year.) Shortage occupations are specific occupations for which there are not enough workers in Germany. These professions at present are: Scientists in natural science disciplines, mathematicians, architects, interior, urban and traffic planners, designers, engineers, scientific engineers, physicians (except dentists) and those with academic qualifications in information and communications technology.

- If you are working in another profession, you will need to earn EUR 4,700.00 gross per month or more. (This equates to 56,400.00 Euro per year.)
- Note: Success bonuses and other fully variable special payments are not taken into account.

- Possibly: Approval of the German Federal Employment Agency (Bundesagentur für Arbeit)

You need the approval of the Federal Employment Agency if you

- work in a shortage occupation and
- earn less than EUR 4,700.00 gross per month.

- Depending on the profession: Occupation practice permit

For some jobs you need a special permit, for example for human medicine. If you do not know whether you need this special permit, please ask your employer.

- Health insurance

You have health insurance in Germany, either in the statutory health insurance system or a comparable private health insurance.

Foreign health insurance is not sufficient.

- Main residence in Berlin

You live in Berlin. A second residence in Berlin is not sufficient.

- Appearance in person

Please submit your application to your local office. We recommend that you book an appointment online.
