

Permanent settlement permit for family members of German citizens

Upon application, you may receive a permanent settlement permit if

- * you have cohabited with a German spouse or same-sex life partner, child or parent
- * for 3 years with a temporary residence permit,
- * have sufficient proficiency in the German language, and
- * the subsistence of your family is ensured.

A permanent settlement permit will be granted in most cases if you have satisfied the requirements set out in the section "Prerequisites".

Prerequisites

- Possession of a residence permit for 3 years
The period in which a valid national visa was held will be counted as well, provided you have cohabited with your German family member since arrival.

- Family cohabitation with one German national.
The German family member may be your
 - * spouse or same-sex life partner,
 - * child, or
 - * parent.Family cohabitation must
 - * have persisted without interruption for at least 3 years
 - * and still be current.

- In-person visit
Personal appointments should be by arrangement only. Your German family member must also attend the appointment.

If the foreign father of a German child places an application for a temporary residence permit without being accompanied by the child's mother, confirmation from the Youth Welfare Office (not older than 14 days) concerning visiting rights must be submitted.

- Proof of Income
Your income must be sufficient to ensure your subsistence (including the subsistence of your foreign family members).
Your subsistence is not ensured if you receive public benefits from a Job Center (unemployment benefits II) or the Social Welfare Office (basic income support payment).
Your spouse or same-sex life partner may also provide proof of income.

- Sufficient health insurance
Proof of a secure livelihood must also include sufficient health insurance. Those with statutory health insurance are sufficiently insured. Those with private health insurance must consider the type and extent of their health insurance. For more information, please read the leaflet "Information on adequate health insurance".

Sufficient command of the German language

You must demonstrate sufficient proficiency in the German language (level B1 according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).
